buying books online	don't stop with e-bay or amazon . there are many sites that offer books from large numbers of dealers or individuals; half.com is a good one to begin with – they list the books from all the dealers on the same page by price within condition; you can request other types of lists. alibris and abe are for rarer (and more expensive) books. One important thing to notice is that prices diverge wildly. Condition can also be tricky; one seller will call a book "brand new" and price it high, while another's "almost new" cheaper book will be pristine, obviously never even opened flat.	go to a search engine like Google and type in "used books" and be overwhelmed

I am very grateful to the folks at the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, especially to Cathy Chaparro, for all the help they have given me and my SaleList over the years.

The Library is still graciously providing a link to my Used Book Sales and Stores document, but any announcements of book sales that you used to send to Cathy should now come directly to me:

If you find errors anywhere in the SaleList, please consider the following, and send me a gentle message describing the action I need to take. If the problem isn't addressed in a week....well, you'll think of something.

Recently, I was diagnosed with A. A. A. D. D. - Age Activated Attention Deficit Disorder. This is how it manifests:

I decide to water my garden.

As I turn on the hose in the driveway, I look over at my car and decide my car needs washing.

As I start toward the garage, I notice that there is mail on the porch table that I brought up from the mailbox earlier.

I decide to go through the mail before I wash the car.

I lay my car keys down on the table, put the junk mail in the garbage can under the table, and notice that the can is full.

So, I decide to put the bills back on the table and take out the garbage first.

But then I think, since I'm going to be near the mailbox when I take out the garbage anyway, I may as well pay the bills first.

I take my checkbook off the table, and see that there is only 1 check left. My extra checks are in my desk in the study, so I go inside the house to my desk where I find the can of Coke that I had been drinking.

I'm going to look for my checks, but first I need to push the Coke aside so that I don't accidentally knock it over. I see that the Coke is getting warm, and I decide I should put it in the refrigerator to keep it cold.

As I head toward the kitchen with the Coke, a vase of flowers on the counter catches my eye--they need to be watered.

I set the Coke down on the counter, and I discover my reading glasses that I've been searching for all morning.

I decide I better put them back on my desk, but first I'm going to water the flowers.

I set the glasses back down on the counter, fill a container with water and suddenly I spot the TV remote. Someone left it on the kitchen table.

I realize that tonight when we go to watch TV, I will be looking for the remote, but I won't remember that it's on the kitchen table, so I decide to put it back in the den where it belongs, but first I'll water the flowers.

I pour some water in the flowers, but quite a bit of it spills on the floor. So, I set the remote back down on the table, get some towels and wipe up the spill.

Then, I head down the hall trying to remember what I was planning to do.

At the end of the day

- the bills aren't paid,
- the car isn't washed,
- there is a warm can of Coke sitting on the counter,
- the flowers don't have enough water,
- there is still only 1 check in my check book,
- I can't find the remote,
- I can't find my glasses,
- and I don't remember what I did with the car keys.

Then, when I try to figure out why nothing got done today, I'm really baffled because I know I was busy all day long, and I'm really tired.

I realize this is a serious problem, and I'll try to get some help for it, but first I'll check my e-mail.

Don't laugh -- if this isn't you yet, your day is coming!

GROWING OLDER IS MANDATORY. GROWING UP IS OPTIONAL.
LAUGHING AT YOURSELF IS THERAPEUTIC.

P.S. I just remembered. I LEFT THE WATER RUNNING IN THE DRIVEWAY.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX of Library Sales Events

The date in the “1st day” column indicates where to find a detailed listing in the chronological section that begins on page 9.

If the current year appears in the “year” column, the sale has been confirmed for this year. If some of the data in that same entry are in red, they are from last year and we are waiting for this year’s information. If the entry is all in black, it is complete and correct.

HELP WANTED

There are several pages in this document that were left blank on purpose, so that the other side of the sheet can be used as a poster or so that a particular section will begin on the front of a sheet.

I hate to waste anything, so I've started putting odd bits of info on those filler pages.

Do you have any suggestions of book- or library-related material that might be printed on those blank pages for the amusement or edification of us all?

Quotations, cartoons, lists of banned books, editorials...whatever....

Used Book Sales

See the back of the front cover for more websites about books and book sales.

Most public libraries have used book sales, either periodically or on an ongoing basis. They are usually run by a "Friends of the Library" group and survive on donations and volunteers. It may be wise to call the organization to verify date, time, and location, especially in those cases where an approximate or last year's date is given. The annual book sales are usually large events.

Map of Pittsburgh Library Branches

This map was copied from the Carnegie Library site at www.clpgh.org. For addresses and times of operation, see page 7. For driving directions refer to the list of Ongoing Book Sales beginning on page 27, go to the clpgh site and look up the individual branch by clicking on the symbol on the map there, or follow the general instructions at the bottom of this page.

In Case You Missed the Class on Maps:

You can go online to get door-to-door driving instructions from your home to anywhere else, including the distance of each leg of the journey and estimates of the time it will take to drive.

My favorite method of getting this info:

go to www.google.com.

click on Maps above the search argument box

click on Get Directions below the new search argument box enter your starting address including city, state, and zip in the box on the left and the ending address (etc.) on the right

you will get a map and a list of directions you can print.

It won't be the directions you'd get from a resident – no landmarks, no shortcuts, no avoidance of the worst traffic – but it will get you there.

Remainders:

- We will be entertaining offers for the purchase of our book sale remainders this year. We anticipate having 100-250 boxes of remainders, across all categories. (Treasure and auction remainders will NOT be included.) If you are interested in making an offer (per box) for the lot, please contact me at kemanne@msn.com.
- We will be auctioning the entire lot of "treasures" remainders after the sale. Details are still being worked out, but we anticipate that it will be a local, on-line auction in order to eliminate having to ship the books. An inventory of all of the remaining "treasures" will be provided to any interested parties after the sale and prior to the auction. Again, contact me at kemanne@msn.com if you are interested.

Prices:

Standard prices this year are generally staying the same, as shown below. Exceptions include CDs (increasing to $2.50), and books-on-tape (decreasing to $3). GOODWILL from an e-mail received 2/7/06:

At this time, Goodwill Industries of Pittsburgh no longer will hold book sale fundraising events. However, all of our retail stores will continue to sell books, and efforts are underway to make the retail store book presentations more customer friendly and bountiful. Also, starting Feb. 16, 2006, there will be a small book storefront at our new Wexford attended donation center (located at Wexford Shoppes, 10293 Perry Highway, Suite 201, Wexford, PA 15090).

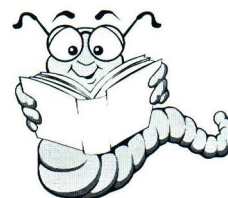

Thanks, again, for your ongoing support of Goodwill's mission. Your purchases and donations help people improve their quality of life through work and related services.
Best wishes,

INDUSTRIES OF PITTSBURGH

A New Chapter of Goodwill Books Begins

Dear Friend:

As winter melts into spring and the mercury rises in our thermometers, a new chapter for books begins at Goodwill Industries of Pittsburgh. In February, we opened our first combination Attended Donation Center (ADC) and Bookstore located at 10293 Perry Highway in Wexford, and we are changing the way our donated books are displayed and sold in our other not-for-profit retail stores. Each year, Goodwill resells hundreds of thousands of gently used books and we're hoping to increase that number to help support our job-training programs.

The new ADC/Bookstore and our established not-for-profit retail stores in Monroeville and on Pittsburgh's South Side have been redesigned to increase the space devoted to books, and we have created reading areas for our patrons. Each location stocks approximately 3,000 volumes in as many as 40 categories, and there are another 30,000 boxed in the warehouse waiting for space to become available. Currently books are restocked daily and the unsold volumes rotate out every three weeks.

The stores in Uniontown and the North Hills are scheduled for changes next, and we're working to have the book sections in our remaining 20 stores in southwestern Pennsylvania and north central West Virginia updated by the end of this year.

As the agency planned the revamp of our retail stores regarding the sale of donated books, we had to make the difficult decision of discontinuing the annual Great Book Sale and Children's Book Sale. Although we're sad to see these events end, we realize this is a new beginning for you, as you will now have the opportunity to book-shop nearly 365 days a year instead of waiting for one day in the spring and four days in the fall.

We'll continue to accept donations of gently used books from individuals as well as libraries, and most volumes will sell in our stores for $1.99 to $4.99. Please stop by one of our stores and take a couple of minutes to page through our new book sections.

Goodwill would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our loyal patrons and volunteers who helped to make our book sales so successful. We'll miss seeing our friends at the sales and having the chance to catch up on what has been happening since we last saw you. However, we still need volunteers, especially in our basic literacy, GED prep and computer basics classes that are part of our literacy initiative.

For more information about being a Goodwill program volunteer or for a listing of our store locations and hours of operation, please visit our web site at www.goodwillpitt.org or call us at 412-481-9005.

Thank you again for supporting our mission of helping people to improve their quality of life through work and related services.

Sincerely,

Jean Nelson-Sims
Marketing Manager

How to Donate Books

Don't leave donated materials on the sale shelves. It screws up the system a lot.

Give them to a library staff member or a Friends of the Library volunteer, who can also give you a tax receipt.

Shoot Your Own Dog

In the classic frontier tale Old Yeller, the beloved hound is bitten while fighting off a rabid wolf who is attacking the hero's mother and sister. The boy is devastated when his mother says Old Yeller must be shot to prevent spreading the deadly disease, but he forces himself to accept the truth, put aside sentiment, and do what is needed. Later his father helps him to see that "that's how life is a part of the time...A man can't afford to waste all the good part, worrying about the bad parts". Sometimes you gotta do what you gotta do. So, here's what you gotta do. When you pack up donations of used books and magazines to donate to the Library, please Shoot Your Own Dog. Get rid of the books that have no future; don't bring them to the Library for execution. It's too hard on volunteers' souls.

But Be Sure He's Yours

When we find a book that seems still to belong to a library or other institution, before we can sell it we have to contact them to discover whether it has been withdrawn from their collection. This is very time-consuming and sometimes difficult.

Please make sure "library books" are marked "withdrawn" or something similar before you pass them on to us.

Printing it Doesn't Make it Sacred

People won't buy photocopied things. Supplemental readings from classes, texts used in in-service trainings, anything your broker sends you in the mail, CATALOGS, the complete list of alumni from your college or members of your professional organization have all served their purposes. Let them go. People who are looking for this information will look on the Internet or get it where you got it.

Watch Out for Infection

MILDEW IS ALIVE. If your books are damp, smelly, or have dark dots and splotches, they are not only unmarketable, they are dangerous to other books. They must be thrown away immediately, and the library has to pay for trash collection, so it is unkind to donate them.

Appearance Counts

What makes a book pleasant to hold? Flat pages, strong binding, no water damage, paper that doesn't flake, no smell, no stickiness or grime, a spine with few crease lines – these are all basic to most people's enjoyment of the physical experience of holding a book. It is possible to overlook some problems if the book is very special, but be honest – would you lend it to your mother-in-law?

Please stack donations in a box or a paper bag. Snugly. Flat.

Plastic bags, especially trash bags, do awful things to books. Once books are bent, they can't be sold.

Know What You are Donating

Check boxes to be sure there is nothing in them by mistake. Finding old photos we can't return makes us sad. Live things scare us. On the other hand, I found my two best paring knives in boxes of books (months apart!).

Some Things Just Don't Sell

NO TEXTBOOKS. If they are more than two or three years old, nobody wants to buy them. If they are newer, you should take them to a college bookstore or one of the used textbook stores near a college campus. You can make some money, and the books are more likely to reach the right audience. The exceptions are items with unique features. We had a chemistry textbook written by Nobel Laureate Linus Pauling ... that was interesting. We had no problem selling a fifth grade health/hygiene text from 1910; it was fascinating. If a textbook is useful as a reference book because of an excellent glossary or an appendix with extraordinarily well organized information, attach a note about its special features. If it isn't worth the time to do that, why are you giving it to us?? NO ENCYCLOPEDIAS – nobody buys them.

NO VOLUME I WITHOUT A VOLUME II. NO "AARDVARK – AZALEA" FROM A SUPERMARKET SERIES YOU DECIDED NOT TO KEEP BUYING. NO INSTRUCTION MANUALS. NO COLORING BOOKS WITH PAGES COLORED!

Would you: Buy based on Consumer Reports studies from 1995? Stay at a hotel recommended by a guide book from 1975? Settle bets about "world records" with a Guinness Book from 1980? Then look in our FREE box; we can't find many people who will buy these things, so that's why we say NO OUTDATED ATLASES, TRAVEL BOOKS, PRICE LISTS FOR COLLECTORS, ETC. unless they are so old that they are of historical interest. Nobody wants to read about which mutual funds to buy last year.

and Some Things Shouldn't Sell

If you purchased this book without a cover, you should be aware that this book is stolen property. It was reported as "unsold and destroyed" to the publisher, and neither the author nor the publisher has received any payment for this "stripped book."

← This is a notice found inside many paperbacks.

Books with the front covers ripped off go straight into the trash, no matter how badly we want to read them ourselves.

*"I would be most happy
if my children grew up to be the kind of people who think decorating consists of building enough bookshelves. "*
